POSITION OVERVIEW

The School of Arts and Social Sciences is a large, multi-disciplinary School, which offers programs in Humanities, Media, Contemporary Music, Visual Arts, Social Welfare and Social Sciences on-campus and in flexible delivery modes, all of which include Honours programs. The School is based across three campuses located in Lismore, Gold Coast and Coffs Harbour. The School supports degrees at undergraduate and postgraduate levels, as well as postgraduate research degrees.

The Head of School is seeking to appoint an outstanding academic to a full time continuing position at Level D (Associate Professor). The role will include a renewable three-year term as Deputy Head of School with specific responsibility as Director of Research to lead and manage the School's research strategy. The Deputy Head of School forms part of the School's management team which comprises the Head of School, Deputy Head of School (Teaching & Learning), Deputy Head of School (Research) and School Administration and Technical Managers.

The appointee will possess an outstanding track record of achievement in scholarship and research in a discipline relevant to the School and be a highly experienced academic manager and leader. We are particularly interested in applicants in the field of creative industries or creative arts.

The successful applicant will also be expected to foster partnerships and develop and maintain appropriate links with community, professional and industry bodies.

The successful applicant may be required to act as Head of School should the Head of School be off campus and may be required to travel between all University campuses in order to undertake their duties.

Further information on the School of Arts and Social Sciences is available at: www.scu.edu.au/sass.

SELECTION CRITERIA

Ideally, the appointee should possess the following qualifications, skills, abilities and experience:

1. Extensive experience and demonstrated effectiveness in research strategy development and leadership within a university setting.
2. A national or international track record in scholarship and research as evidenced by publication output, grant application income, and supervision of higher degree research candidates.
3. A doctoral qualification or equivalent professional experience and reputation in one of the School's discipline areas, preferably in the creative industries or creative arts.
4. Experience in initiating, developing and successfully completing research/consulting projects, and/or other scholarly activities.
5. Demonstrated success in teaching and learning and curriculum development in a university setting and in a discipline relevant to the School.
6. Demonstrated ability to effectively plan for and manage an allocated responsibility relating to the School's human, physical and financial resources.

7. Demonstrated high level skills in negotiation and conflict management.
8. Evidence of professional engagement and a commitment to regional engagement.
9. A capacity for adaptability and flexibility in a rapidly changing environment.
10. Demonstrated commitment to cultural diversity and a working knowledge of equity and workplace health and safety principles.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Facilitate and promote research achievements within the School. Contribute to the development of School research goals and develop and implement the School's research plan. Foster interdisciplinary research within the School and across the University.
- Assist the Head of School to articulate, contribute to and drive the strategic development of the School in the context of the University's strategic plan. Assist in the development of operational plans for the School incorporating teaching, research and regional and community engagement across all campuses. Lead the development of new academic programs and manage course, unit and organisation unit reviews.
- Assist the Head of School in undertaking annual Performance Management, Development and Review (PMDR) reviews for employees within the School in accordance with the University's PMDR Policy.
- Develop, promote and manage strategic partnerships and collaborations with other educational institutions, external communities, regional organisations, industry, government and professional bodies and stakeholders.
- Ensure the financial viability of the School through developing and supporting appropriate strategies for commercial projects, international activities, research, consultancy and enrolments.
- Contribute to and provide leadership to the School's teaching programs in relevant discipline areas.
- Represent the School on relevant University committees.
- Act in the absence of the Head of School when required.
